

Lodge Advisers Minute

As the Holiday season approaches it reminds me of this wonderful time of the year that we reflect on our accomplishments of the past year. But most importantly I hope we try to reflect on the friendships and people who are so important in our own lives, who without their help and support our accomplishments are meaningless and in vain. I hope that each one of us as brothers in the Order of the Arrow will make sure that our priorities in our own lives are balanced with family and friends and most of all, to God and our Country, which is the first principal of the Scout Oath, which each one of us should be striving to do by living our own lives to the principals of the Scout Oath and Law each day. I would like to wish each one of you a happy and joyous Holiday Season.

Yours in Brotherhood,

Cal Condie
